Dear Music and Art Lovers,

The newest track from Visa for a Direct Object hums with midsummer heat. Paloma Ingrata blends Andean roots with baroque guitar in a cross-cultural soundscape. The song is a lament, but with an implicit joy in its dance, a spark, a conversation between cultural aesthetics.

 Paloma Ingrata Finds Its Wings.

Composed by José “Chito” Bonilla Peña, Paloma Ingrata is a contemporary reflection on Andean musical heritage. For this interpretation, Alberto Puerto and Kuyayky join forces to create a delicate arrangement that adds an elegant counterpoint to the folkloric roots of the piece, allowing its emotional depth to resonate through ornamentation, phrasing and silence. The result is an impression of summer; intimate, intricate and shaped by dialogue across cultures and centuries.

🎹 Score of the Month

Now available:
Alberto's arrangement of Ay Amor, the iconic Cuban love song by Bola de Nieve. This rich, expressive score pays tribute to one of Cuba's most beloved melodies, reimagined through the lens of Filin, bolero, jazz, and Afro-Cuban rhythms. It is a must-have for those looking to expand their repertoire with key Latin American works.
